

CALL

Call for project proposal

The Centre for Advanced Middle Eastern Studies (CMES) supports and coordinates research projects with high scientific potential through the Strategic Research Area (SRA): Middle East in the Contemporary World (MECW). CMES funds one new research project per year and encourages interdisciplinary collaboration between researchers from different disciplines within Lund University. Project proposals should be focused on novel interdisciplinary research questions related to the MECW research program. All project members will have institutional affiliation with CMES and perform the research at CMES. Office space, meeting rooms and modern technical facilities are provided for.

- Applicant: 3-5 Principal Investigators with doctoral degrees from at least two different disciplines and with employment at Lund University.
- Grant period: 3 years
- Application deadline: 19 April 2022
- Submission: ansokan@cme.lu.se
- Start of project: 1 September 2022
- End of project: 31 August 2025
- Budget: maximum 1 500 000 SEK /year
- Notification of decision: 30 May 2022

Instructions

It is important that the application is complete. Incomplete applications will not be considered eligible for funding. Proposal should be written in English, Times New Roman, font size 12, single line spacing.

The application must include the following sections:

- A. Abstract (max 250 words): purpose, aims, project organisation, scientific approach, significance of the proposed project

B. Project proposal

1. Title
2. Word count: (maximum 3 000 words excl. references)
3. Purpose and aims
4. State-of-the-art
5. Significance, scientific novelty and relevance to the four themes of the MECW-research program (see www.cmes.lu.se)
6. Theory and scientific method (research design: method, data collection)
7. Time plan, milestones and implementation
8. Project organisation (project leader, management and how each of the team members will contribute to the implementation of the project)
9. National and international research collaboration (a wider network of collaborating researchers can be linked to the project). International scholars are welcome to participate in the research, but are not funded and have no obligations to CMES. Their expertise cannot be decisive for the feasibility of the project.
10. Publication and dissemination plan

C. Budget

The budget should include costs for salaries, travel, material and other costs, including a brief justification of costs. The salaries are to be calculated based on monthly salary plus employer benefits. Indirect costs (OH) are not to be included in the budget. Indirect costs at Lund University and faculty level are automatically added to the requested funds. Overhead is not paid to the departments as CMES provides the workspace and administrative services.

- D. CV and list of publications (maximum 10 of the most important publications) of each PI in the project team.
- E. Statement: If the project proposal has been applied for or will be applied for elsewhere this should be mentioned in the application. In case research funding is received elsewhere for the same project, CMES funding will be withdrawn.
- F. The applicant should ensure that the research is compatible with the ethical guidelines of the Swedish Research Council and that ethical review is carried if necessary.
- G. Signatures and supportive letter from Head of Department should be enclosed to the application.
- H. Submission of application: ansokan@cme.lu.se

Conditions for research funding

- All publications generated from the project must include an acknowledgement of funding: “This research is supported by the MECW-research program and the Centre for Advanced Middle Eastern Studies, Lund University”.

- All publications, conference proceedings and societal outreach related to the project should be registered in the Lund University data base LUCRIS with affiliation to MECW and CMES. This information should also be forwarded to the CMES web editor on a regular basis for dissemination on CMES website and social media.
- Research funded by CMES should strive to be published Open Access (extra costs for Open Access are supported by Lund University Central Library and CMES).
- The research grant must not merely constitute auxiliary funding for current operations or other projects in progress.
- The research funding is not paid to a project group as regular research funding. The researchers' salaries are paid through the CMES, and the financial and administrative services are provided by the CMES staff. On completion of a project (the last day of the project time), the project will no longer have access to any funds. Any remaining funding will stay with CMES.
- The economic arrangement assumes that the main applicant and co-applicants take a leave of absence from their positions, which corresponds to the working hours at CMES. If a researcher changes employer during the project period, they can remain in the group but without payment. If a participant is unable to perform the research at CMES, the remuneration will cease. The project can, if possible, replace the participant with another employee at LU.
- Employment at Lund University has to be secured to cover the entire project period. Note that researchers already funded by CMES during the project period cannot apply. It is possible to include a post-doc researcher, but this person has to be named in the application with secured support of employment with Head of Department.
- After approval by the Head of Department and principal supervisor, doctoral students are welcome to be part of a project, but without remuneration. As unpaid members, they have no obligations to CMES. The composition of the project in terms of expertise can therefore not decisively be based on the knowledge contributed by a doctoral student.
- Three months after the funding ends, the researcher is to submit a final report on the conducted research.

Decision

Applications that fulfil all the conditions stated above are sent out for external peer reviewing, which will assess the novelty, relevance and feasibility of the proposal. The final decision is taken by CMES management. Applicants will be informed by email 30 May 2022 and the successful project proposal will later be posted on CMES website.
