

Modern Standard Arabic for Beginners

This course syllabus and description applies to the 2022 fall semester.

General Information

This is an Arabic language course offered by the Centre for Advanced Middle Eastern Studies (CMES) exclusively for Lund University staff and students interested in working and conducting research in Arabic speaking countries.

Language of instruction: English

Credits: no credits will be awarded

Course fee: the course is free of charge for participants

This 10-week course in Modern Standard Arabic (Basic User, level A1-A2) will be offered during the fall semester of 2022. The participants will either participate in classes on Tuesdays (13:15-15:00) or on Fridays (10:15-12:00) at CMES.

Course Content

The course provides practical linguistic knowledge and cultural background for students and staff who want to study Arabic for work, fieldwork and/or research purposes. Participants will learn to read and write basic Arabic and be able to use the language in everyday situations. In addition to an introduction to Modern Standard Arabic, participants will also get insights into cultures and traditions of the Arabic speaking world. The course is based on a combination of lectures, individual studies and seminars.

Learning Outcomes

On completion of the course, students shall be able to:

- understand and use familiar everyday expressions and very basic phrases
- introduce themselves and others
- ask and answer short questions about personal details

Entry Requirements

To be eligible for the course, participants must either be employed at Lund University or enrolled as students at Lund University. No previous knowledge of Arabic is required.

Application Procedure

Participants should apply to attend the course by sending an email to info@cme.lu.se no later than Monday September 5, 2022. Please write “A1 Arabic Course” in the subject line and include the following information: full name; reason for applying (e.g., fieldwork, research, internship); and preferred day to attend classes (Tuesdays or Fridays). If you are employed at LU, please include your LUCAT id. If you are a student at LU, please include your date of birth. If your application is successful, you will receive additional information before the course commences.

Course Coordinator

The course is taught and coordinated by Rafah Barhoum, language training expert at CMES. Rafah has previously taught Modern Standard Arabic at LU’s Centre for Languages and Literature and worked as a supervisor teacher of Modern Standard Arabic at the Higher Language Institute at Damascus University. She is specialized in teaching Arabic as a second language. Her teaching approach builds on using authentic materials, involving culture, providing opportunities for lived experiences outside the classroom and building on the students’ motivation for using the language. Rafah can be contacted at rafah.barhoum@cme.lu.se
